

ARE PLAYGROUNDS SAFE DURING COVID-19?

While some playgrounds have been reopened, parents and caregivers wonder about the risks of letting their children use playgrounds during a pandemic.

Here are some tips and basic health and safety guidelines to follow when taking children to a playground.

Remember to physical distance! Avoid areas of the playground that make it hard to stay 6 feet apart.

Keep an eye on your children and set a good example for them to follow.

Be prepared with masks, hand sanitizer, and disinfectant wipes.

Avoid crowded playgrounds if you can. If the playground near you is crowded, seek another one or wait until later.

Have a backup plan. If playgrounds are crowded, try chalking on sidewalks or flying kites!
